

Motivate Me

Motivation is not always intrinsic. How do you motivate students to engage in challenging or less-preferred activities and become more independent? This workshop will provide an overview of the principles of reinforcement and effective ways to motivate students. Attendees will be provided with resources to assist in the selection of appropriate strategies and tools to utilize with individuals or groups of students. This workshop is suitable for administrators, educators, paraprofessionals, behavior specialists, and parents.

Presenters

Barbara Haas-Givler, MEd, BCBA
Cora Taylor, PhD

When: Monday, June 4, 2018

Registration: 8:30 am | Training: 9:00 am - 12:00 pm

Where: Geisinger Commonwealth School of Medicine
525 Pine St, Room 2001, Scranton, PA 18509

Cost: Free to attend

Register

<https://geisingeradmi.org/motivate-me/>

This free training series is presented by Geisinger's Autism & Developmental Medicine Institute in partnership with Friendship House and the Geisinger Commonwealth School of Medicine.

Geisinger
Commonwealth
School of Medicine

570-522-9430

geisingerADMI.org

@GeisingerADMI

fb.me/GeisingerADMI